GREAT INDUCEMENTS TO GO WEST.

Salem having been connected with Roanoke by electric cars, which assures cheap and rapid transit to parties living in Salem and working in Roanoke, and as Salem can give in her different factories employment to a large number of young ladies; also cheap homes either to renters or buyers. This in connection with her cheap markets make it very desirable to the majority of us just now. For further information address box 66, Salem, Va. $10 law lmo

Twelve Days at Atlantic City.

The third of the series of popular excursions to Atlantic City, via Baltimore and Ohio railroad, will be run on August 3. Ample provision will be made for the accommodation of those availing themselves of the low rates and superior train service to enjoy a respite by the seaside. The scenery en route is unsurpassed by that of any other route in America.

Tickets will be valid for return journey for twelve days from date of sale, and will be good on all regular trains. On return journey they will be good to stop off at Washington, thus affording an opportunity to visit the numerous public buildings, which are open to visitors free of charge, and to take a trip down the Potomac to Mt. Vernon, the tomb of Washington, as well as to visit other places of interest in and near Washington.

For rates and time of trains, consult appended table:

THE TIMES KODAK.

Interesting News Items Gathered Around Salem.

A wandering umbrella mender was jailed Wednesday night for being drunk and disorderly, and Thursday morning Mayor Younger gave him the option of paying a fine of $2.50 or to leave town by noon, which latter ultimatum he chose and was released. At about 3 o'clock in the afternoon Policeman Johnson pulled him again for remaining in town and he is now in jail once more.

Yesterday afternoon Frank Nininger brought to the jail Otto Meade, colored, who was sent on to the grand jury by Magistrate Goodwin, of Hollins, for stealing peaches in the orchard of Chris Nininger near Hollins. The peaches are now getting ripe in this orchard and great numbers are stolen every day.

An officer from the Petersburg asylum for colored people took Sarah Shaver, the unfortunate distracted mulatto, together with two other unfortunates from the Southwest, to the asylum last night for treatment.

The annual picnic of the Rosebud Missionary Society of Greene-Memorial M. E. Church, of Roanoke, took place yesterday in the beautiful grounds at Lake Spring.

The members of Prof. Appar's class at the school of methods are arranging to form an Agassiz association to carry on the good work.

The government is still testing Mason Leonard's smokeless powder at Sandy Hook. Only a day or two ago a shell was sent at the rate of 2,500 feet a second from a field piece, and the smoke was hardly perceptible. Then an emment shell was experimented with. A charge of eighty six pounds of the explosive sent a shell weighing 685 pounds a distance of six miles.

The Jeff Davis Rifles will have a target practice Saturday evening across the river.

J. Harry Chapman will leave in a few days for Portsmouth, where he will engage in business.

Percales and shirting calicoes in new styles; boys' and youths' suits in latest styles just received at the College Avenue Dry Goods Store.

The Roanoke Rebels and Salem Sluggers, teams of youngsters, played a game of ball in West Salem yesterday, which resulted in a score of 17 to 4 in favor of Salem.

The Baptist Orphanage News for July has been issued and contains a circular letter to the various district associations asking for aid to build an infirmary and a workshop in which the children can receive some industrial training.

Will Shaver, a desperately bad negro who was arrested Saturday for cursing on the streets, was put on the chain gang Thursday, but whilst breaking rock managed to slip the ball and chain from his leg and escaped.

Judge Moffett and two daughters left yesterday for a visit to his old home in Rappahannock county.

All members of the Legion of Honor are requested to meet this afternoon at four o'clock in William McClanahan's office to transact business of importance.

Robert Nourse's lecture Wednesday night on "John and Johnathan," whilst not equal to that of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," was so greatly superior to the reading, "Grand Old Men," that his audience could forgive him for the inclination of Tuesday night.

Dr. M. C. Strickland has returned from a visit to friends in Mt. Airy, N. C. It is stated on good authority that quite a number of Roanoke county's most prominent Republicans say that if Colonel O'Ferrall is nominated for governor they will vote for him. They admire the man and know that he would make an ideal governor.

On Wednesday another little daughter arrived at the home of E. R. Carter.

W. R. Whitescarver is on a short visit to friends in Culpeper.

The total number of teachers who enrolled at the summer school of methods this year was 425, and it is thought at least 100 more would have been present had they not been saving their spare change for a trip to the World's Fair. Already some of the teachers are leaving, and soon the summer school will be but a memory of '93—a very pleasant memory, however, and such a successful affair that Salem wants it next year and every year.

Officers Elected.

Washington Camp, No. 1, Patriotic Order Sons of America, was reorganized last night under the direction of the State deputy, J. W. Camper. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Past president, W. B. Wernwag; president, J. E. Camper; vice-president, Josiah Friend; recording secretary, Robert Hopcroft; financial secretary, J. H. Curry; master of forms, W. C. Nyeum; conductor, W. A. Thomas; treasurer, E. J. Dunsberry; inspector, A. R. Camper; guard, Jos. Camper; trustees: Josiah Friend, W. B. Wernwag and A. Wimbush.

A Household Necessity.

The agents of the self-pouring coffee and tea pots are meeting with good success in their work. A great number of them have been sold in the city, and they are giving entire satisfaction. It is an indispensable requisite to the table. The recommendations of many of our citizens are shown by the agent, who justly prizes them as an evidence of the merits of his article, which once in use becomes an established fixture. We refer to the advertisement in another column.

Two Years in the Penitentiary.

Joe Frank has returned from Welsh, W. Va., where he was summoned as a witness in the trial of William Cobb for breaking into a box car and stealing a lot of goods, some of which belonged to Mr. Frank. The jury sent Cobb to the penitentiary for two years.

Now is the time to begin taking Strother's Iodurated Sarsaparilla. Dollar size bottle for 50 cents at your druggist's.

TO AMATEUR MUSICIANS.

Some Hints Which, if Followed, Will Be Found Quite Advantageous.

The following is a series of hints to young singers and would be singers which have been received from one of Boston's well known musicians:

Start under the right instruction. It is far better to begin right in middle life than wrong in youth.

Study everything carefully, for "what's worth doing at all is worth doing well." Cultivate refinement in all things. The tastes, inclinations and tendencies of the singer, whether refined or coarse, are unavoidably made manifest in the interpretation of the music she sings.

Keep up with the events of the world in a general way, but while studying music live in an atmosphere of music. Concentration is the secret of many a singer's success.

Sing everything as the author wrote it, for one should be as truthful in music as in history.

Plan your mode of living and hours for eating, sleeping and exercising according to the manner in which they affect your singing.

Throw your whole soul into your singing. Live in the song while you sing it. The sympathy and interest of an audience are most frequently gained by the sincere, soulful and truthful rendering of a selection.

Cultivate animation, warmth of spirit and coloring in rendering your songs.

Train yourself to be cool headed and collected when singing.

Sing without notes when possible. You can produce better dramatic effects and hold your audience better by so doing.

Don't try to study music, art and science all at the same time. Select one and do that well.

Don't think of making music your profession unless you have a more than ordinary talent for it. The musical profession is always crowded with performers, except at the very top, where there is always plenty of room.

Don't think of making music your profession unless you have plenty of money to give yourself the best possible musical education.

Don't think that training in execution and technique of the voice only is sufficient. The professional singer should be a perfect reader and well schooled in counterpoint and harmony.

Don't think the life of a successful singer is easy. The more successful the singer the more she becomes a slave to her profession.

Don't make a practice of humming. It tires the voice.

Don't practice long at a time, especially if you are just beginning. It is much better to practice little and often.

Don't eat just before singing. A hearty meal several hours before and a light stimulating refreshment just before you sing are much better.

Don't drink wine for a stimulant. It is not only drying to the throat, but is too strong a stimulant. A person needs to be especially self composed when singing.

Don't indulge in mannerisms and catchily originalities in rendering your selections. A natural manner and sincere singing are much more pleasing and desirable.—Boston Journal.

A Mean Lot of Bridegrooms.

One of our city clergymen tells this: "I have had some funny experiences with grooms who have failed to pay me anything. One man came to me one day and asked me how much I charged. I told him that we charged nothing, but he could give me what he liked. I married him, and he promised to pay me, but never did. Not long after another couple, who had been sent by the others, came in, and I married them, the groom promising to give me a fee, but nothing came of it. Some time after there came still another couple who had been sent by the previous one. The groom declared he was dead broke. I told him how the others had treated me, but he promised faithfully to pay me in the future, and I tied the knot. That has been some time ago, and he has not yet fulfilled his promise. I have had a good many such cases."

Another minister in this city says: "The only fee that I remember not to have received was after I had married a man who was well able to have given me a good one. I do not think he was to blame, however, for I have always suspected the best man as having appropriated it for his own services in the affair."—Baltimore Herald.

The Ceremonial Use of Tobacco.

Since the worldwide diffusion of the tobacco habit its earliest and perhaps original use has been in a great measure overlooked. With the aborigines of America smoking and its kindred practices were not mere sensual gratifications, but tobacco was regarded as an herb of peculiar and mysterious sanctity, and its use was deeply and intimately interwoven with native rights and ceremonies.

With reasonable certainty the pipe may be considered as an implement the use of which was originally confined to the priest, medicine man, or sorcerer, in whose hands it was a means of communication between savage man and the unseen spirits with which his universal doctrine of animism invested every object that came under his observation. Similar to this use of the pipe was its employment in the treatment of disease, which in savage philosophy is thought to be the work of evil spirits.—John Hawkins in Popular Science Monthly.

High Prices For a Violin.

A violin dated 1734 and said to have been made by Stradivarius in his nineteenth year was sold in London lately for $800. During the last 20 years this violin has changed hands three times, on the first occasion being bought for $400 and on the second for $600.—London Tit-Bits.
